

OUR AUTHORS

Aimar Ventsel is a PhD senior researcher at the Department of Ethnology, University of Tartu, has conducted fieldwork in and published on Kazakhstan, Russian Far East and East Germany.

punkrock@folklore.ee

Baurhzan Zhanguitin is a PhD, works in the Kazakh National Pedagogical University named after Abai. He is a historian and migration researcher.

Dinara Khamidullina is a PhD student of history in the Kazakh National Pedagogical University named after Abai.

Yuri Berezkin works as head of American department at the Museum of Anthropology & Ethnology (Kunstkamera), Russian Academy of Sciences; professor in the faculty of Anthropology of the European University at Saint Petersburg. Research topics: comparative mythology and folklore, prehistoric migrations and cultural interactions; early complex societies.

berezkin1@gmail.com

Theo Meder works at the Meertens Instituut in Amsterdam as a senior researcher specialized in Dutch folktales from the Middle Ages until today. He is supervisor on the Dutch Folktale Database (www.verhalenbank.nl) and is involved in several computational humanities projects at the moment (FACT, Tunes & Tales). He is a member of several societies for folk narrative research: ISFNR, ISCLR and SIEF. He has published several books about fairytales, legends and jokes, and wrote articles in international journals like Fabula, Folklore, Humor, Contemporary Legend, Western Folklore and in the Enzyklopädie des Märchens.

theo.meder@meertens.knaw.nl

Kamila Baraniecka-Olszewska is a PhD, works in the Institute of Archaeology and Ethnology of Polish Academy of Sciences. Her main subject of interest was anthropology of religion and performance studies, and especially forms of religious expression, historical reenactments in Poland.

kamila.baraniecka@gmail.com

Uğur Tuztaşı is assistant professor at Cumhuriyet University, Faculty of Architecture. He received his PhD degree from Mimar Sinan University of Fine Arts, Graduate School Natural and Applied Sciences in 2009. His research interests include archaeology of the Turkish house, vernacular architecture and architectural theory.

ugurtuztasi@gmail.com

Mehmet Uysal is associate professor at Necmettin Erbakan University, Faculty of Engineering and Architecture, Department of Architecture. He received his PhD in 2004 from Selcuk University, Graduate School Natural and Applied Sciences. His research interests include spatial morphology, space/culture relationship, vernacular architecture and spatial structures in different spatial typologies.

mimuysal@gmail.com

Fatih Akdeniz is a PhD student at Anadolu University, Institute of Social Sciences, Department of Communication Design and Management. He is currently a lecturer at Dumlupınar University, Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Department of English Language and Literature. His research interests include postcolonial social structures, space/culture relationship, vernacular architecture and literature, media and communication theories.

fatih.akdeniz@dpu.edu.tr

Francis Joy is a historian, a researcher at The Arctic Centre, University of Lapland, Faculty of Art and Design. For the past 8 years he has undertaken extensive research into Sámi religious and cultural practices with a special focus on shamanism, drum symbolism and pre-historic rock paintings.

francis.joy@ulapland.fi

Dmitri Funk is professor and chair, dept. of ethnology at the Moscow State University and a leading researcher at the Tomsk State University. His scientific interests include social and economic transformations, adaptations, and sustainable development in post-soviet countries, (ethnic) identities and social structures of northern peoples, interethnic connections/influences in Shamanism, Islam, Buddhism, and neo-religious movements in Northern Asia, epic studies, electronic text corpora and endangered languages/archives.

d_funk@iea.ras.ru

Elena Nam is a leading researcher of the Laboratory for Social and Anthropological Research at the Tomsk university.